

Middle East Crisis to Get Quick UN Action After Shooting Threat

U. S. Makes Sure Russian Role Will Be Aired

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States worked urgently today on proposals designed to insure that any U. N. inquiry into the Middle East crisis will take a look at the role played by the Soviet Union.

This became known as Sir Leslie Munro, president of the U. N. General Assembly, called a meeting of the Assembly's 17-nation steering committee for tomorrow to begin the first round of debate.

A spokesman for the U. S. delegation said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was in a huddle with his aides this morning on ideas which the United States would advance.

The probe was proposed yesterday by Syria, apparently acting in coordination with the Soviet Union. Both said a Turkish attack on Syria appeared imminent. The U. S. spokesman said the United States welcomed the proposal and expressed hope it would clarify "who it is that threatens peace in the Middle East."

The meeting of the Steering Committee was delayed until tomorrow after some key delegations, including Turkey, insisted they would not have time to receive instructions from their governments.

The committee was expected to urge the full 82-nation Assembly to take up the Syrian-Russian charges on an emergency basis, bypassing debate in the Political Committee.

Diplomats predicted the Assembly would begin debate on the explosive issue early next week.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in a letter to Assembly President Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, charged that the Turkish general staff, working with American advisers, had made plans for an attack on Syria immediately after the Turkish elections Oct. 27.

Gromyko proposed that U. N. members raise a force to meet any such attack and said Soviet forces would take part. The Russian also endorsed the Syrian demand for a U. N. commission to investigate the situation on the Syrian-Turkish frontier and recommended that it be instructed to report within two weeks of its creation.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference that any Russian-Syrian attack on Turkey would bring U. S. forces to the aid of the Turks. Dulles warned that in such event Russian soil would not be "privileged sanctuary" safe from American retaliation, as Chinese Communist territory had been in the Korean War.

From Ankara, the Turkish government sent Syria a note yesterday rejecting earlier charges of aggressive plans and counter-attacking that the pro-Soviet Syrian regime was raising a diversionary furor to cover up the spread of Russian influence into the Middle East.

The Syrian Cabinet was called to meet in Damascus later today to discuss a proposal for national-wide mobilization.

Games Cancelled Due to Flu Spread

By The Associated Press

Influenza, which has caused postponement and cancellations of several high school football games, invaded the college ranks today.

Cliff Shaw, commissioner of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference, announced that League clash between Arkansas A&M and Ouachita Baptist College originally scheduled for tonight had been cancelled because of flu at the Arkadelphia school. The game was tentatively rescheduled for either Nov. 14 or Nov. 16.

A&M, starting from a 14-13 defeat at the hands of Delta (Miss.) State College, last week had been favored to make Ouachita its fourth ACI victim. The game was to have been played at Arkadelphia.

Bell Proposes New Plan for Franchise Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A new formula for establishing city franchise taxes has been laid before the state Public Service Commission by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The formula, based on the number of telephones in a city and percentage of revenues Southwestern Bell obtains from them, was submitted to a PSC hearing yesterday.

But 15 attorneys representing Arkansas towns asked for time to study the proposal and the commission recessed the hearing until Nov. 14.

Warren E. Bray, general manager for Southwestern Bell in Arkansas, told the PSC that 78 cities in the state now are charging about the same or less than the proposed formula would allow them.

Seven others are assessing franchise taxes higher than the formula permits. These include Little Rock, Pine Bluff, Hot Springs, El Dorado, Mena Harrisburg and Gurdon.

Bray testified that a wide variation exists in franchise rates. He said that meant Southwestern Bell customers in towns with low taxes are paying part of the tax burden in cities with high rates.

The telephone company asked the PSC for authority to pass on to customers the cost of any franchise tax above a city's rate in the new formula.

The formula would allow each city for new telephones and each year the franchise tax would be revised to include them. Bray said the formula would "little or no effect" on company earnings.

The Council, in trying to bring attendance to an all time high, urged students in Hope and surrounding area to attend the Youth Center.

The group planned for a big dance following the Hope-Hot Springs Homecoming game and also for a Halloween celebration. The Youth Center is open on all Fridays that the Roberts are at home and on all Saturdays from 8:00 until 11:00. All teenagers are welcome.

British Queen Greets 'Friend, Staunch Ally'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radiant Queen Elizabeth II brought greetings from "a friendly neighbor and a staunch ally" on her arrival today for a state visit to the United States.

In colorful, full-dress ceremonies at National Airport President Eisenhower told the 31-year-old British monarch her stay will help strengthen the ties of friendship between the two great English-speaking nations.

Those ties, Eisenhower reminded his royal guest, "have been tested in the crucible of war when we fought side by side."

After the pomp and ceremony of the formal greeting, the two chiefs of state rode for nearly an hour through cheering throngs lining Washington's historic avenues, bound for the White House and another welcome from Mrs. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, wearing a constant broad smile, sat between Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, in the back of the bubble-top White House parade car.

The Queen, Philip, and occasionally the President, waved smiling acknowledgments to the cheers of crowds that stood in deep ranks along the sidewalks. Philip's acknowledgment of the cheers "Pan to the Victory" gesture, as at times his royal wife appeared to go a shade past her usual restrained flip of the wrist.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II of England flew to Washington today to receive from President Eisenhower in colorful ceremonies, the official welcome of one great nation to the visiting monarch of another.

Eisenhower's personal plane, Columbine III, bearing the Queen on a triumphant visit to historic Williamsburg, Va., touched down at National Airport at 11:12 a.m.

The splash and color and pomp of full military and official honors contrasted with the dull, gray autumnal day. But a light rain which had been falling earlier in the morning had stopped.

Washington, the nation, and the President receive other chiefs of state from time to time, but there was something special about this one which brought face-to-face the heads of the two great English-speaking nations at a critical time in the world's history.

Eisenhower, dressed in gray, arrived at the airport in a limousine two or three minutes before the Queen's plane came into view.

The color guard snapped to present arms, the band struck up ruffles and flourishes and "Hail to the Chief" echoed out across the airport.

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Elizabeth II flies into the nation's capital today to start a four-day state visit as guest of President Eisenhower with the cheer's smiles and most unusual — the laughter of affectionate and enthusiastic people in her ears.

The young Queen has another rugged schedule which keeps her on the go from early to late. The day closes with a white tie state dinner with the President, and first lady at the White House.

Washington saw a new Elizabeth today — a radiant, laughing woman who on three occasions yesterday in Virginia deliberately evoked laughs from the crowds with gentle jokes and good humor. She actually departed from her prepared scripts twice in one speech at a formal banquet last night at the Cotuites.

Elizabeth, however, had a grueling day yesterday from the moment she stepped off her Royal Canadian Air Force plane until, finally at 11 p.m., she and Prince Philip left the dinner at Williamsburg Inn given by officials of the 350th anniversary observance of the Jamestown settlement.

Good-humored, affectionate and easygoing, she was everywhere as the royal party, sheltered by Virginia Gov. Thomas B. Stanley and State Department protocol chief Wiley Buchanan Jr., toured the city.

Soviet Satellite Appears to Be Nearing End

By DON GUY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Satellite Sputnik appeared to be losing its race around the world with its rocket-companion by 23 minutes today. It appeared that the rocket, dropping closer to earth — and into a smaller orbit — was moving ahead in its relative position in the sky.

Three moonwatchers on the roof of the Harvard Observatory thought they saw the smaller Sputnik trailing the much-brighter rocket at approximately 5:17 a.m. EST. The rocket had been sighted at 4:52 and at 4:54 reached the same point in the sky where Sputnik was later observed.

A slight haze and the brightening dawn made all three observations this morning extremely difficult, according to Marshall Melin, moonwatch coordinator.

Ralph Stevens of Arlington, looking through his moonwatch telescope said, "I definitely saw something copper-colored" cross the field of view.

Richard Elliott of Stoneham said he thought he saw a "pin dot" move across the field of his scope. Hugh Arroyo of South Natick also thought he saw Sputnik.

All these times were at or close to 5:17 a.m. They will be checked later against an automatic electronic recording of the time.

Sputnik had been reported trailing the third-stage rocket almost since its launching by Russia nearly two weeks ago.

This is the first time three watchers in the Boston area placed it so far behind.

The rocket today was again sighted in the northwest sky, and tracked as it passed just above the star-group known as the Pleiades, or "Seven Sisters," and then past the constellation Orion. Its light fluctuated a great deal.

Dr. George Van Biesbroeck, astronomer emeritus from the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago, joined the watchers today. He thought the variations in light was partly caused by the rocket changing in position as it tumbled in space about 275 miles high. A high haze also contributed to the fluctuation.

Dr. Van Biesbroeck, an expert on the orbits of rockets, has been called in by the Smithsonian Observatory staff to aid in calculating the orbit of the Russian moon.

Several evening sightings of the speeding rocket were reported last night, for the first time, in the Greater Boston area.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — British and American scientists disagreed today over whether the Russian satellite's carrier rocket is hurtling toward an early doom.

British astronomer A. C. D. Lovell said in Manchester, England, "I am convinced something catastrophic will happen to the rocket very shortly."

Lovell, director of the Manchester University radio astronomy station, said the carrier rocket may fall into the heavier stratosphere layers and start breaking up by tomorrow or Saturday.

But in Cambridge, Mass., the head of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said last night it is impossible for the carrier rocket accompanying Sputnik to come down in less than a week.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple said, "It will stay up for at least two months," and that the satellite

Suit Against Use of U.S. Troops Dismissed

Hints Report May Cause Jar in Integration

By ED MARTIN

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Little Rock business man who took part in a closed meeting with Gov. Orval Faubus will deliver a report that might cause a jar in the integration deadlock here.

Walter C. Guy, member of a committee of 24 business leaders pledged to uphold law and order in the crisis, said the report to the committee this afternoon "May have national impact."

"I think there is hope of resolving the problem without either political segment retreating," Guy said yesterday.

By political segments, he explained, he meant Faubus and President Eisenhower.

Guy would not say what was in the report. However, he said he felt either would make a statement or release the entire report after the committee meets behind closed doors.

Guy, a printing company executive, is chairman of a six-man businessmen's subcommittee that met with Faubus Tuesday. The governor has refused any comment about the meeting other than to say that the discussion stayed in the exploratory stage. Neither Guy nor other subcommittee members revealed what took place.

Only one report about what happened came from the Arkansas Democrat, which said yesterday it learned that Faubus told the businessmen the White House would have to change its attitude before there could be any basis for mediation.

Seven of the nine Negro children at the storm center of the integration dispute attended Central High yesterday without incident. The two others have been ill with influenza.

Half of the 1,100 paratroopers who were sent to Little Rock Sept. 24 to enforce a federal court order for Central High's integration went back to their base at Ft. Campbell, Ky., yesterday.

More than 300 of the 101st Airborne Division soldiers flew out of Little Rock Air Force Base in eight C-123 troop carrier planes and others left in motor vehicles.

The outback in military forces was ordered Monday by Army Secretary Buckner. He took the action in cognizance of "the generally orderly situation" at Central High.

Buckner also ordered 5,500 Arkansas National Guardsmen demobilized. That left about 1,800 guardsmen on duty.

So far there has been no word from Army officials here on when the demobilization will take place.

Newsman asked Faubus yesterday what he thought might happen if guardsmen restored to his command were ordered to enforce integration at Central High.

The governor replied that he thought many of them would resign from the guard rather than participate in "forced integration."

Hope's Roberts, idle for the past two weeks, are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping the flu bug will not bring about another cancellation. First Texarkana was hit and called off the game with Hope.

Next Hope was hit and had to postpone its game with Crossett. Now the word is that Fairview Coach Cecil Counce is fearful the bug is creeping up on his Cardinals.

Cadet Col. Kirk James, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. James of Hope, was recently given the Air Force ROTC Summer Training Leadership Award at summer camp.

at the camp James was appointed flight leader and his group won the "honor flight award." He plans to make a career of the Air Force. Upon graduation from SMU this spring he will receive his commission as a second lieutenant.

French Get Ready for Red Riots

By GARVEN HUDGINS

PARIS (AP) — Communist plans for demonstrations protesting the Algerian war threatened France with violence today. Steel-helmeted police riot squads were reinforced and army units were alerted for trouble.

The nation, meanwhile, struggled along with a caretaker government. Former Premier Antoine Pinay was trying to form a cabinet to end the 16-day-old government crisis.

A 24-hour power strike crippled the entire country. It defied a ban by Premier Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury's lame duck regime. The government was convinced that riots would result.

The Communists called the ban "fascistic," and the party newspaper L'Humanite said: "Tomorrow in Paris, and in all of France, the great voice of the people will be raised on behalf of peace in Algeria."

Other organizations, including several powerful veteran groups, organized counterdemonstrations. The Communist support Algerian rebel demands for immediate, complete freedom for the North African land. Some veterans organizations are prominent in the fight wing, which insists France must hang on to Algeria at all costs.

Deset by unrest and sharp disruption in the nation's political and economic life, most Frenchmen were aware they faced one of the gravest of their many post-war crises. The realization bolstered Pinay's slim chances of ending the Cabinet crisis.

Pinay, a Conservative Independent, agreed last night to form a cabinet. He planned to submit his lineup to the National Assembly tomorrow for approval, which appeared to hinge on whether the Socialists would support him.

More pay was demanded by more than 100,000 utility workers who struck yesterday, cutting off electricity and gas service during the day. Communist, Socialist and Catholic unions joined in rare unity in asking 30 per cent raises to keep up with the cost of living.

About Half of Missiles Fail in Test

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — About half of the intermediate range ballistic missile tests made by the United States weapons — so far have been rated successful.

The others ranged from complete failures, such as burning up on launching pads to erratic flights in which the test devices had to be destroyed before they had flown very far. And the only two reported tests of an intercontinental ballistic missile were virtual failures.

On the scientific side of the American rocket program, tests and delays also have occurred.

During the last year, men at Cape Canaveral, Fla., ballistic missile test center have pushed firing buttons on missiles or missile-like test vehicles a total of 13 times.

Six of the "birds" flew high and far, with results meeting or surpassing advance estimates.

Seven of them didn't. But technicians and scientists insist that even some of the faltering missiles provided valuable development data before their brief sojourn in the air ended in explosions or fires.

A much larger number of missiles and test vehicles remain to be fired.

Here, on the basis of unofficial reports, is how the test record stands at present:

Air Force — Total of seven tests, of which two were of the Atlas ICBM and five of the Thor ICBM. The two Atlas tests were "virtual failures, yielding only a medium of performance data before their destruction. Two of the five Thor tests were described as entirely successful, the other three suffered fates like the Atlas missiles.

Faubus to Attend Fall Folk Festival

EUREKA SPRINGS (UP) — Gov. Faubus was scheduled to lead a parade which officially opens the 10th Annual Fall Folk Festival at this Northern Arkansas resort today.

Chamber of Commerce officials said the governor would ride in a horse-drawn fringe-edged survey driven by Mrs. Effie Wilks, widow of a pioneer family here.

Faubus was expected to drop here today then spend the night before going on to Fayetteville for Law Day at the University of Arkansas Friday.

He plans to attend the football game between Arkansas and Texas at Fayetteville Saturday.

U. S. to Use More Cold War Tactics

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States intends to pay more attention to psychological warfare as a weapon in the cold war against Russia.

President Eisenhower served notice of this yesterday when he picked Arthur Larson, chief of the U. S. Information Agency, to be his special White House assistant on steps to counter Soviet propaganda campaigns — including that which soared with the Russian satellite.

To succeed Larson as USIA chief, Eisenhower selected George V. Allen, a career diplomat who has served as ambassador to Iran, India, Yugoslavia and NATO and now is ambassador to Greece. No date was fixed for the change, but James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary, said it will occur soon.

The surprise appointment removed Larson from the agency where he has been a favorite target of congressional Democrats, who objected to his Republican political speeches.

Informed officials said, however, that in naming Larson, Eisenhower was doing more than giving him a new post behind the scenes where he would be safe from Democratic attack.

The job to be filled by Larson, they said, is an important one because it gives the Eisenhower administration a qualified official, unburdened by daily administrative problems, to concentrate full time on the propaganda aspects of the cold war.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said that "what this country needs is not propaganda but action."

O'Mahoney said that while the administration had been cutting back on defense funds and manpower, the Soviet had been succeeding with missiles and an earth satellite.

Three Die in Separate Accidents

By The Associated Press

Three persons died in separate highway accidents in Arkansas yesterday with a 73-year-old Mississippi County man drowning after his truck skidded into a drainage ditch near Blytheville.

Officers said E. M. Bryson's truck went out of control on a rain slick highway, crashed through a bridge railing and plunged into four feet of water in the ditch. Bryson was trapped inside the vehicle which fell on its side.

The accident occurred three miles east of Blytheville on State Highway 18.

Patsy Long, 13, was fatally injured when hit by a car as she was riding a bicycle near her home on U. S. Highway 107 six miles north of El Dorado. Patsy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Long died shortly after arrival at an El Dorado hospital.

Mrs. R. E. Netercutt, 46, of Paron in Saline was killed and her 23-year-old son was critically injured in a car-truck collision on a rural Pulaski County road 15 miles west of Little Rock.

Burt W. Netercutt, an airman on leave from Forbes Air Base at Topeka, Kans., was in critical condition in a Little Rock Hospital. Mrs. Netercutt died at the hospital about two hours after the accident.

Davies Rules No Constitutional Issue Involved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A suit of a segregationist leader against the presence of federal troops in Little Rock has been dismissed by U. S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies of Fargo, N. D.

The dismissal order was dated Oct. 15, and a copy was received by mail here today.

Judge Davies ruled that "no substantial constitutional issue" was presented in Mrs. Margaret Jackson's petition for an injunction against use of the troops in the Little Rock Central High School integration controversy.

Mrs. Jackson, vice president of the segregationist League of Central High Mothers, had asked that a special three-judge court be called to hear the case.

She contended that use of the troops, which were sent here to enforce court-ordered integration of the high school, was in violation of the U. S. constitution.

She named Maj. Gen. Edward A. Walker, commander of the Arkansas Military District, and Col. William A. Kuhn, commander of a regiment of the 101st Airborne Infantry Division, as defendants.

Mrs. Jackson's attorney, Kenneth C. Coffelt, was not immediately available for comment.

Presumably, however, the dismissal order could be appealed to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Davies was sent here in August on a temporary routine assignment to fill a vacancy in this district. He almost immediately became involved in integration litigation and aroused the ire of Gov. Orval Faubus for ordering the Little Rock School Board to proceed immediately with a plan for gradual integration, which already had been approved by another district judge and the appeals court.

Davies left Little Rock for Fargo several weeks ago, but he said at the time that he would retain jurisdiction in any integration matters.

Faubus was surprised when newsmen told him of Judge Davies' action.

"I'll be damned," he said. After a pause, he added: "If this continues we'll all be damned."

The governor said that the action was "in keeping with his (Davies) former methods, but this is more far-reaching than anything he has done in the past."

"I have no interest in the suit," he said. "All attorneys whom I talked to never for a moment questioned that it was a good suit, perfectly good legal basis," Faubus said.

At one point, he said that he "had no interest in the suit," but later explained that he had "a keen interest as an observer." It involves a very important question.

DOROTHY DIX

You've Lost a Husband:
Don't Lose Friend Too

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was married at 16, and realize only too well what a foolish move it was. After six months of marriage, my husband began running around with other girls, and shook off every responsibility. Finally he said, "I might as well go back home, as he was tired of me. There really was nothing for me to do but go."

Now he wants me to get a divorce but I still love him, and hope we can make another try at marriage. It's impossible without him, and I wonder if it would be okay for me to accept dates with other boys. One in particular is beginning me to go out with him; he has been calling one of my best and truest friends. I know I'd lose her friendship if I date him. Is it worth it?

Dear A. N.: You're an impulsive young lady — as evidenced by your early marriage; better, but in a sense, you're a victim. You have lost a husband; why try to lose friends, too? As a married woman you're in no position to date anyone; as a girl of any loyalty you wouldn't take your best friend's beau from her. If those two reasons aren't enough to influence you, consider your reputation.

Miss Ida Turner of Lake Village presided over the guest book in the church vestibule.

After a trip to the Gulf Coast the couple will be at home in Hot Springs. For travel Mrs. Shehane wore a black and white sheath with matching jacket and black accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Form Assets of All-Time High

BOSTON (UP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson says the administration's farm program has brought farm assets to an "all-time high."

Benson defended his farm program in a speech Tuesday night before the annual convention of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

He said there are at least 10 indications "progress is being made" with the program. Among these, Benson listed increasing farm income, higher prices and an all-time high export rate.

Soviet Satellite

will remain in the sky longer than the rocket which propelled it there Oct. 4. Whipple said Sputnik's life expectancy could not be forecast at this time.

A prediction that the Soviet sphere might drop within a week was made Tuesday by Dr. Robert Jastrow, a physicist with the Naval Research Laboratory here.

Last night, Jastrow appeared to back away from that prediction. He joined Dr. Cabell A. Penree, another physicist at the naval lab, in saying they are not attempting any accurate estimate of "an expected lifetime for the satellite."

However, Jastrow and Penree suggested in their joint statement that electrical charges picked up by Sputnik in its flights around the earth may be shortening its life.

By W. Edmunds Claussen

THE STORY: Dave Sharadin is returning to his father's ranch in Arizona after serving with the Confederate cavalry. In the stage coach carrying him to the Padre mountains is Sherry Burdette and Mr. and Mrs. Eban Browne and their baby.

CHAPTER X

The stagecoach gave an extra violent jolt. The driver's voice flowed down to them in a gusty shout. "You folks inside! Get them guns ready. We're ridin' into somethin'!"

Dave shook the sleeping man's shoulder. The farrier lay in a stupor, his gray eyes wide and staring. Dave said sharply, "Pull your wits together. Indians back of the peak!"

Dave tore back the curtain which hung partially before the window and stared over the cactus-covered hummocks. The made dust hanging low above the desert and smoke. Even against the thumping and rattles of the Concord he could hear warwhoops. Mohave raiders were ringing the station which lay beyond his vision.

He wondered at first why the driver hadn't turned his stage and run for it. Then he understood the raiders had spied them from the ridges and there was no use trying to elude them with teams that were spent. Their best chance now would be in forling up inside the station.

Sherry's expression was without fear. She smiled at him simply with that faint turning of her lips. "If the fight goes against us, take my pistol," he told her bluntly. "The final shot will be for you. Understand?"

Dave thrust his rifle over the window ledge. The blast of the charge shook the inside of the stage. The Mohave at whom he had aimed fell to the side of the draw, bouncing along the rocks. "Close!" The farmer's voice brought Dave's glance back into the stage. Eban Browne's face was dark with anger as he inserted a finger into a splintered crevice of woodwork beside his wife's head.

The coach now rattled under the impact of arrows piercing its side panel. Sherry's hand fell on his thigh, trembling. He threw her downward against the seat. Leaning far over her, he smashed the glass from the far window. From here he commanded a view from Sherry's side and saw the arrows were coming from a half dozen graves closing fast on the coach.

The war paint on their bodies was streaked with sweat, red on their faces running into black.

Dave had drawn his pistol from his waistband as he flattened Sherry to the cushions. Now he leveled off, sending his lead into the galloping ponies. He shot fast, with deadly accuracy. Where there had been a half dozen Indians a few moments ago riding with their bows there were now three remaining. These kicked their ponies savagely toward the more broken terrain.

He heard a choking sob. Twisting into the coach he found Elaine Browne holding her husband tightly in her arms. There was a shocked, unbelieving expression to Browne's gaze. Then Dave saw the man's jacket was stained over one shoulder, with blood seeping in an ever wider pattern.

"I'm all right," Browne told him stubbornly. "Only a flesh wound."

Dave tore the man's shirt away and saw that Browne was right. It was a nasty wound, but by no means fatal.

Judging by the receding shots, Dave believed they had run through the Mohave cordon. But when the coach reached the crest of the land and came down the level run toward the station, Dave knew they could never stop here. This would be Burdette's station.

A small wagon train had encamped on the flat directly to the lee of the buildings. All four of the wagons in the park were aflame. The raiders were busy cutting free the stock remaining on its feet. The station itself now had a thatched roof was a flaming pyre. A pair of young bucks were driving the fresh stage horses from the corral, while strown across the ground in front of the station's ramada lay the bodies of the slain.

"Don't look," Dave pleaded, but he knew Sherry wouldn't turn away.

The Mohave chief was sitting on a shabby pony at the base of the station flagstaff. White Dave watched they ran up the flag. They had slashed this first with their knives as a final mark of scorn. It had been so long since Dave had seen Indian handwork that it wrung an involuntary shudder from him. A white man's head had been fastened to the halyard along with the flag!

The scalp had been lifted, but even in its ghastliness the eyes were staring across the desert as though still possessed of sight. Dave had the Sharps' reloaded. He thrust the long barrel against the window and brought the brown chest into his sights, and squeezed the trigger. The chief was carried forward by the impact of the charge. He clung a moment, clawing the mane, then fell into the brush.

Sherry made a strange choking sound and buried her face in Dave's shoulder. Her hand twisted deeper into his shirt and made a hard knot.

"Sherry," he said softly, and was unable to find the words he searched after. In spite of every denial the truth leaped against his brain. She had identified the gruesome face and this was her husband!

Minnesota, Illinois on TV Saturday

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) - Minnesota's football team operates on the "Now he has it - Now he doesn't" principle of the split T, so if the TV viewers keep sharp eyes on Bobby Cox (12) or Dick Ganson (15) Saturday, they'll know who's carrying the ball against Illinois.

To make it easier, Cox and Larson both are quarterbacks and hence won't be in the game at the same time.

These two have been major factors in making Minnesota the nation's No. 3 team and the reason why the Gophers are a 12-point favorite to down Illinois in the nationally televised spectacle.

Coach Murray Warmath won't compare his two signal callers except to say that "I'm very happy I've got both of them." He's used them about equally in piling up three victories in as many starts this season and when one can't get the offense rolling, the other usually does.

The tale of Minnesota's football can't be confined to the backs, however. It's likely the TV fans will see plenty of No. 78, tackle Frank Youso, who weighs 255 pounds. Coach Ara Parseghian, whose Northwestern team was a 41-6 victim of the Gophers last week, said of him, "He just picked up our tackles and guards and walked right through the line."

Warmath fears Illinois, even though the Illini have won only one of three games, and statistically, Illinois ranks 14th in the nation on total offense, averaging 354 yards per game. Minnesota ranks 15th with a 347-yard average.

Fairview Has Always Been Tough for Hope

After a two weeks layoff on the gridiron, the Bobcats journey to Fairview Friday night in the Cardinals Homecoming tilt. Hope and Texarkana cancelled their game two weeks ago because of the flu epidemic in the Porkers squad and last Friday night, the Hope-Cross conference game was postponed until Nov. 19th because the Bobcats had been stricken.

The Turpinmen have been working out in the Third District Livestock Coliseum because of bad weather, but with only spot scrimmages and fundamentals going on. All the squad is in pretty good shape with the exception of Jack King, who will not start, but may see action.

Coach Turpin has revised the starting lineup for the Fairview game: Franks and May will start at ends, Weisenberger and Chambliss will be at tackles, Porterfield or Winston Duke will be at left guard and Jerry Thurman or Oliver Adams at right guard with Coapt, Lynn Wiggins at center.

Tommy Polk will go at quarterback, David Watkins has been shifted to half back, Steve Crahn or Terry Thurman will start at fullback and Don Boothe or Terry Thurman at the other halfback post.

This is Fairview's homecoming, and even tho they haven't won a game this season, they will be pointing toward knocking the Bobcats down. This will be a big day for the Cardinals, and they don't intend to let the Bobcats spoil it with a win. Scheduled is the annual Alumni banquet, big downtown parade and the crowning of the Queen.

Last year in Hammons Stadium, the Bobcats rolled to a 35 to 6 victory over the Cardinals by gaining 245 yards for 20 first downs. Polk passed for two TD's, one to Jimmy Hollis and the other to John Nix. Boothe and Cottingham scored on line plunges and Johnny Graves elminated the victory with a 52 yard dash through center. Duke split the posts with 5 conversions.

In 1955-56 and 53, it was a different story. The Cardinals whipped up a 20-7, 14-13 and 33-0 victory those years which means the Bobcats have never beaten them at Fairview. In 1952, Hope ground out a 20-13 win on local turf.

Hope Junior Varsity team (10th grade) will go to Camden tonight. Hope Junior High team (7-8-9th grades) game with Nashville to night has been cancelled, due to sickness.

Porkers Fear Texas in Dad's Day Game

FAYETTEVILLE (UP) - Longtime rivals Arkansas and Texas meet Saturday before an expected sell-out Dad's Day crowd of more than 30,000 in a game which the experts believe could be decided by an extra point.

The Razorbacks of Arkansas will be trying for their third consecutive Southwest Conference victory against no losses for the season. The Hogs come from behind last week to whip Baylor's Bears at Waco, Tex., 20-17.

Texas, which made a first half fight of it before being licked 20-7 by Oklahoma's second-ranked Sooners last Saturday, boast Walt Fondren, whom Arkansas Coach Mitchell has called "the toughest quarterback we've faced all year."

Despite the fact Arkansas will enter the game without injury, Mitchell points to the injury-free Longhorns, who boast a 12-point advantage in the starting line.

The Saturday game will be the 39th between Texas and Arkansas. Texas holds a decisive 29-9 lead in the series, which started in 1904 but the Porkers will be going after their fourth straight win.

Besides from 25 to 30 fathers of Arkansas varsity grid players, members of the Arkansas Legislature and Gov. Faubus will attend the game as guests of the University.

14 Arkansas Grid Teams Unbeaten

By JOHN R. STARR
Of the Associated Press

Five teams dropped off the list of unbeaten and untied Arkansas high school football teams in the past week, leaving the tally of perfect record clubs at 14.

Fayetteville, St. Anne's of Port Smith, Mabelvale, DeQueen, and Parkin led the pack with six triumphs each.

Two Big Eight Conference teams head the column of 5-lime victors and Little Rock Hall was thoroughly upset by Jenton Friday night. Three other perfect record teams came on the short end of times' matching unbeaten and untied opponents - Wilson losing to Earle and Marianna going down before Forrest City.

Only St. Anne's is assured of surviving the coming weekend unbeaten. The Buffalo game with Danville was postponed because of a flu epidemic at Danville.

Most of the perfect record teams will be favored, however, as the schedule sends Texarkana to Little Rock Central, Smackover to El Dorado, Springfield, Mo., to Fayetteville, Harrison to Bentonville, Forrest City to Newport, Parkin to Harrisburg, Greenwood to Booneville, Burdette to Earle, Lonoke to Mabelvale, Horatio to Lakeside of Hot Springs, Ashdown to Prescott, Nashville to De Queen and Monticello to Lake Village.

Two unbeaten and untied teams who do not appear in the chart are Gentry and Gravette, both with 6-0 records. They meet this week end and the winner is the likely champion of the Northwest Arkansas 6-man football league.

The unbeaten and untied teams: Fayetteville, 1AA, 21-0
St. Anne's, 4A, 13-0
Mabelvale, 5A, 18-0
